Governor Whitmer Joins MHCC in Adelante MI Kick Off

On Monday, July 31, Gov. Gretchen Whitmer joined officials from the Michigan Hispanic Chamber of Commerce (MHCC) along with funders and state and local officials to officially kick off the Chamber's new Adelante MI initiative. The kick off was held at the recently opened Rancho Alegre Mexican Restaurant located at 1436 Fort St. in Lincoln Park. Restaurant owner Adriana Vazquez Lopez enthusiastically greeted the Chamber's guests and catered the afternoon event.

The new program, funded by a $100,000 grant from the New Economy Initiative, is designed to provide technical support services to help Hispanic-owned small businesses in Lincoln Park, MI. According to MHCC Executive Director Mark Moreno, additional funding will be sought to expand the program to other communities across Michigan with significant Hispanic populations.

Adelante MI will deliver services to close the entrepreneurial gaps, focuses on direct outreach to communities where English is a second language, and target specific sectors of the underrepresented Hispano/Latino entrepreneurial community. It provides the same access and opportunity to education, networks, technical assistance training, capital, and entrepreneurial skills/ competencies resources as other non-Latino communities.

The importance of this initiative at this time cannot be understated. Moreno highlighted the significant role that Hispanic entrepreneurs are playing in the U.S. economy. "Latinos create businesses three times faster than any other group in the United States," he reported. "And Latinas create businesses six times faster than any other group in the United States! Latinos start more businesses per capita than any other racial or ethnic group in the United States," Moreno concluded.

Gov. Whitmer emphasized the importance of the Hispanic business community in our state. "In Michigan, the Hispanic population has been growing steadily. Between 2010 and 2020, the Hispanic population in Michigan increased by 18 percent, outpacing the overall population growth rate of 2 percent." The governor continued, "While the total Michigan Hispanic population is just 6 percent, this growing demographic is contributing significantly to the state's economy and is reshaping the cultural landscape."

Finally, Moreno stressed that in the past, Hispanic self-employment has lagged behind Michigan non-Hispanic and U.S. Hispanic, however he noted, "The growth rate over the past five years … of Hispanic self-employment in Michigan is 43 percent vs. Michigan non-Hispanic at 8 percent and U.S. Hispanic at 6 percent. This growth is a testament to the entrepreneurial spirit and resilience of the Hispanic community."

Get revvved up in 2024! Cedar Point announces Top Thrill 2, The world's tallest and fastest triple-launch coaster

SANDUSKY, Ohio (Aug. 1, 2023) – Cedar Point, The Roller Coaster Capital of the World®, will once again redefine roller coaster innovation in 2024 with the debut of Top Thrill 2, the world's tallest and fastest triple-launch strata roller coaster. The strata coaster, known as any roller coaster eclipsing a height of 400 feet, was first pioneered by Cedar Point in 2003. The park will build on that legacy with not one, but two, 420-foot-tall track towers, putting riders in the driver's seat for one of the greatest races of all time.

A New Formula for Thrills

Riders will immerse themselves as they join the CP Racing Team and climb into one of three, sleek high-performance racing vehicles. Each of Top Thrill 2's trains will feature open-air seating, providing heart-pounding views on the world's first and only dual-tower vertical speedway.

On the start, using an all-new linear synchronous motor (LSM) launch system, riders will peel out down the straightaway reaching speeds of 74 mph, racing toward the sky on Top Thrill 2's original 420-foot-tall "top hat" tower. After experiencing weightlessness during the "rollback" – the coveted fan-favorite moment when the train's momentum isn't great enough to make it up and over the tower – the train shifts into reverse and into its second launch, reaching speeds of 101 mph.

Riders will then see Cedar Point unlike ever before as they speed into a backward climb at a 90-degree angle on a new, 420-foot-tall track tower. After a second moment of weightlessness, the train shifts into drive and races forward into its third launch, clocking in at the ride's top speed of 120 mph.

Crossing over the top hat tower, the train decelerates momentarily before diving into a 270-degree spiral and crossing the finish line.

"Top Thrill 2 will be the boldest and most advanced roller coaster Cedar Point has ever introduced.

It's another one-of-a-kind that could only be built at Cedar Point," said Carrie Boldman, vice president and general manager of Cedar Point. "Our stamp on the industry is in roller coaster innovation, and today, that's solidified as we redefine the strata coaster into a mega-thrill that our guests will come from far and wide to experience."

Delivering High-Tech Racing Performance

Partnering with Cedar Point and utilizing the ride's original and iconic top hat tower, Zamperla Rides and its Roller Coaster Business Unit engineered and designed a completely new experience. Top Thrill 2 is one of the first roller coasters in the world to utilize Zamperla's "Lightning" trains, capable of high-speed aerodynamics, performance and rider comfort. The ride's new high-tech LSM launch system delivers smooth and quiet acceleration while giving riders the chance to feel the rush of motorsport racing.

"My sincere congratulations to Cedar Point on the announcement of this incredible project. Today, with pride and excitement, we embark on this collaborative journey together," added Antonio Zamperla, president and CEO of Zamperla. "It is an honor for Zamperla to add our signature on The Roller Coaster Capital of the World®. I cannot wait until next year when we see this record-breaking scream machine come to life."

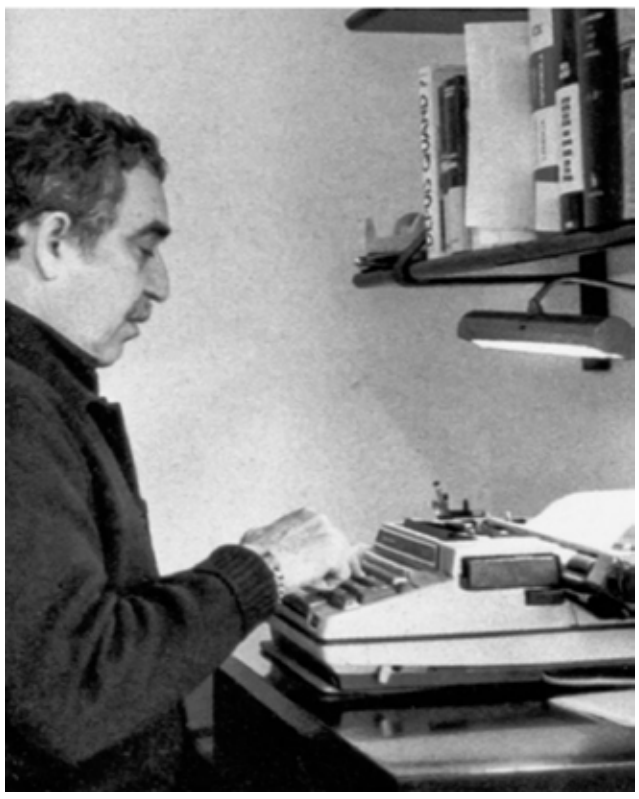
Short Story Contests, How To Write A Short Story?

A few years ago I was shared with an article that addressed the great problem of contemporary short stories. Whoever wrote the article analyzed stories published in different literature magazines, and was able to observe a common factor that gave him a great disadvantage against the novel, which focused on the fallacy: A story is an action. However, when he reviewed the most outstanding and popular tales within the last century, he realized that in these tales the text did not focus on the action, but on the development of the characters. The characters thought, desires, fears; that is, there was a story behind each character. Let's think about the story of The Little Mermaid, where The Little Mermaid longs to go to the surface to have a human soul and live with the prince she has fallen in love with. Let's think of other stories like those written by Edgar Allan Poe or Franz Kafka.



All of the above, taking advantage of the desire to express oneself through artistic displays is more common than it seems and many have the pleasure of sharing it with those around them.

However, the calls to send the projects to different competitions around the world. On this occasion we want to encourage and invite you to participate in the short story contest convened by the Gabriel García Márquez Foundation, XVII Ciudad de Pupiales International Short Story Contest 2023. The call is open to the public as long as you write your story in Spanish of no more than 2 pages and closes on August 30. The prize is 7 million Colombian pesos, which is equivalent to $1,500 USD. The call admits submissions online.

In case you want to participate, we will give you some tips that at the beginning of the 20th century a Russian literary critic, Vladimir Propp, developed the theory of The morphology of the short story. In this text he described 31 functions that can be used for writing the story, or at least to review what we already have and give us a better chance of success if we participate.

Although, to start the story it is not necessary to start from: ONCE UPON A TIME, since you can start from a part of the plot, as Elena Garro does in her story: The Tlaxcalans are to blame:

Nacha heard a knock at the kitchen door and she stayed still. When they insisted again, she opened it quietly and looked out into the night. Mrs. Laura appeared with a finger on her lips as a sign of silence. She was still wearing the burnt white outfit dirty with dirt and blood.

In this story we can see that Elena introduces us to two characters, Nacha and Mrs. Laura. Not much is said in this first paragraph, but she is explaining to us a space and a night situation arousing suspense. Although we don't know what will happen, we are somewhat excited to know what happened to Mrs. Laura and where does she come from? Why does she bring her white dress dirty with dirt and blood?

Tell them you saw it in EL CENTRAL
Diles que lo viste en EL CENTRAL

In Propp's analysis, not only are all 31 roles reviewed, but he finds 7 consistent character roles. In contemporary literature they are not always defined and separated by these roles, as some develop different roles in turn:

The Hero or protagonist.

The Beloved one, it can also be something that the character yearns for or desires.

The Donor or helper is the one who attributes or assigns the desired good.

The Dispatcher is the one who sends the protagonist or gives the challenge to the protagonist. It can be a situation, an idea, an object or a person.

The Helper, it can be a person, situation or object that will help you get rid of the situation.

The Villain or aggressor. He is the one who interferes in the action of the hero. It is the obstacle and it can be a person, situation or thing.

The False Hero. He is the one who pretends to be the hero and usurps his place, claiming recognition that is not his.

In the story of the little mermaid and the Disney stories this type of structure is followed, because let's see that The little mermaid stops being a mermaid to be human and conquer her prince. Sleeping beauty sleeps, and the prince is the protagonist.

In short, if one starts from all this and merges it with the 31 narrative functions of the story, even though it does not use the 7 characters, nor the 31 functions, it will help to take this into account, well, yes, a story it needs an action, and also the development and transformation of the character. Here we will only put some of the functions that can guide us in the realization, keep in mind that there are only two pages.

Departure from one of the characters
A prohibition falls on the protagonist.
The prohibition is violated.
The aggressor tries to deceive her victim in order to seize her or her property.
The victim is fooled.
The seeker hero accepts or decides to act.
The hero leaves his house.
The hero undergoes a test, a questionnaire, an attack, which prepares him for the reception of an object or a magical aid.
The magic item becomes available to the hero.
The hero is transported, driven or brought near the place where the object of his search is located.
The hero receives a mark.
The hero returns.

We hope that with this, you can help yourself. If you win your prize, let us know so we can share with you the joy of your award and recognition.

Concursos de cuento

Concursos de cuento, ¿cómo escribir un cuento?

Hace unos años me compartieron un artículo en el que se abordaba la gran problemática de los cuentos contemporáneos. Quien escribió el artículo analizaba cuentos publicados en diferentes revistas de literatura, y pudo observar un factor común que le daba una gran desventaja contra la novela, que se centraban en la falacia: Un cuento es una acción. Sin embargo, cuando revisó los cuentos más destacados y populares dentro del último siglo, se dio cuenta que en estos cuentos el texto no se centraba en la acción, sino, en el desarrollo de los personajes. Los personajes pensaban, se vestían, tenían deseos, miedos; es decir, había detrás de cada personaje una historia, pensemos en el cuento de La sirenita, donde La Sirenita añora ir a la superficie para tener un alma humana y vivir con el príncipe del que se ha enamorado. Pensemos en otros cuentos como aquellos que escribió Edgar Allan Poe o Franz Kafka.

muestras artísticas es más común de lo que parece y muchos tienen el gusto de compartirlo con quienes les rodean. Sin embargo, las convocatorias para enviar los proyectos a diferentes concursos por el mundo.

En esta ocasión queremos impulsarles e invitarles a participar al concurso de cuento convocado por la Fundación Gabriel García Márquez, XVII Concurso Internacional de Cuento Ciudad de Pupiales 2023. La convocatoria está dirigida a todo público mientras escriba su cuento en español de no más de 2 páginas y cierra el 30 de agosto. El premio es de 7 millones de pesos colombianos que equivalen a $1,500 USD. La convocatoria admite envíos por Internet.

En caso de que quieran participar les daremos unos tips que a principios del siglo XX un crítico literario ruso, Vladimir Propp, desarrolló la teoría de La morfología del cuento. En este texto describió 31 funciones que nos pueden servir para la escritura del cuento, o al menos para revisar lo que ya tenemos y darnos mayor oportunidad de éxito en caso de participar.

Si bien, para iniciar el cuento no es necesario partir de: HABÍA UNA VEZ, ya que se puede comenzar de una parte de la trama, como lo hace Elena Garro en su cuento: La culpa es de los tlaxcaltecas:

Nacha oyó que llamaban en la puerta de la cocina y se quedó quieta. Cuando volvieron a insistir abrió con sigilo y miró la noche. La señora Laura apareció con un dedo en los labios en señal de silencio. Todavía llevaba el traje blanco quemado y sucio de tierra y sangre.

En este cuento podemos observar que Elena nos presenta a dos personajes, Nacha y la señora Laura. No se dice mucho en este primer párrafo, pero nos está explicando un espacio y una situación de noche despertando el suspenso. Aunque no sabemos lo que sucederá, quedamos de alguna manera entusiastas por saber ¿qué le pasó a la señora Laura y de dónde viene? ¿por qué trae su vestido blanco sucio de tierra y sangre?

En el análisis de Propp, no sólo se revisan las 31 funciones, sino que encuentra 7 roles de personajes constantes. En la literatura contemporánea no siempre están definidos y separados por estos roles, pues algunos desarrollan a su vez distintos roles:

Donante es quien atribuye o asigna el bien deseado.
Mandatario es que envía al protagonista o da el reto al protagonista. Puede ser una situación, una idea, un objeto o una persona.
Ayudante o auxiliar, puede ser una persona, situación u objeto que le ayudará a librar la situación.
Falso héroe. Es quien se hace pasar por el héroe y usurpa su lugar, reclamando el reconocimiento que no es suyo.

En el cuento de la sirenita y los cuentos de disney se sigue este tipo de estructura, pues veamos que La sirenita deja de ser sirena para ser humana y conquistar a su príncipe. La bella durmiente duerme, y el príncipe es el protagonista.

En fin, si uno parte de todo esto y lo fusiona con las 31 funciones narrativas del cuento, pese a que no utilice a los 7 personajes, ni las 31 funciones, servirá como ayuda tomar en cuenta esto, pues, pues sí, un cuento necesita una acción, y también el desarrollo y transformación del personaje. Aquí sólo pondremos algunas de las funciones que nos podrán orientar en la realización, tengamos en cuenta que son sólo dos páginas.

Alejamiento de uno de los personajes
Recae sobre el protagonista una prohibición.
Se transgrede la prohibición.
El agresor intenta engañar a su víctima para apoderarse de ella o de sus bienes.
La víctima se deja engañar.
El héroe buscador acepta o decide actuar.
El héroe se va de su casa.
El héroe sufre una prueba, un cuestionario, un ataque, que le preparan para la recepción de un objeto o de un auxiliar mágico.
El objeto mágico pasa a disposición del héroe.
El héroe es transportado, conducido o llevado cerca del lugar donde se halla el objeto de su búsqueda.
El héroe y su agresor se enfrentan en un combate.
El héroe recibe una marca.
El héroe regresa.
El héroe recibe su recompensa o premio o matrimonio.

Esperamos que con esto, puedas ayudarte. Si ganas tu premio, avísanos para compartir contigo la alegría de tu premiación y reconocimiento.

Gov. Whitmer Signs 'Make it in Michigan' Budget

Bipartisan budget delivers record investments to grow the economy, create jobs, and keep communities safe

LANSING, Mich. — On Monday, July 31, Governor Gretchen Whitmer signed a balanced, bipartisan general government state budget for Fiscal Year 2024 to grow the economy, lower costs, deliver on kitchen-table issues, and help anyone "Make it in Michigan."

The FY24 budget, when combined with the education budget previously signed by the governor, lowers costs on health care, preschool, meals for kids, higher education, housing, and workforce training. Additionally, the fiscal year 2024 budget will help fix bridges, replace lead pipes, and protect public safety.

"The Make it in Michigan budget will lower costs, deliver on the issues that make a real difference in people's lives, and help anyone 'make it' in Michigan," said Governor Whitmer. "The budget protects public safety and improves access to health care, ensuring people feel safe in their neighborhood and have access to quality, affordable care that meets their needs. It supports our service members and veterans, connecting them and their families with the resources they deserve, and will build up all kinds of infrastructure so every family has safe roads, clean water, and affordable housing. Finally, it continues powering our economic development efforts to create tens of thousands of good-paying jobs, and bring manufacturing and supply chains home to Michigan. The Make it in Michigan budget builds on our economic momentum, and will help us build a brighter future for everyone who calls this great state home."

"The budget signed into law by Governor Whitmer today funds programs and services that benefit residents across the state and saves money for a rainy day," said State Budget Director Christopher Harkins. The FY24 budget totals $81.7 billion, including a general fund total of $15.2 billion.

• $18.2 million to provide in-service training to licensed law enforcement officers.

• $14.4 million to improve safety and accountability in correctional facilities, including $7 million to outfit corrections officers with body cameras.

• $150 million to reopen the Palisades nuclear power plant, securing good-paying jobs.

• $23 million for improvements at Belle Isle State Park.

• $23 million to create an endowment for the new Flint State Park.

• $20 million to establish an environmental justice contaminated site clean-up fund to remediate and redevelop contaminated sites in historically disadvantaged and underrepresented communities.

Economic Development

To create good-paying jobs and bring manufacturing and supply chains home, the budget powers economic development efforts, including:

• $500 million annual deposit in the Make it in Michigan Fund, also known as the bipartisan Strategic Outreach and Attraction Reserve (SOAR) Fund.

• $350 million for the Make it in Michigan Competitiveness Fund to win federal resources from the Bipartisan Infrastructure Law, the CHIPS and Science Act, and the Inflation Reduction Act.

• Michigan is set to receive over $1.5 billion (4th highest in the nation) through the Broadband Equity, Access, and Deployment (BEAD) program to expand high-speed internet access to over 200,000 Michiganders in unserved and underserved areas across the state.

• $50 million for Revitalization and Placemaking to fund community development projects.

• $15 million for talent action teams to fast-track assistance to businesses looking to expand or locate in Michigan.

Normally, these preseason friendlies are somewhat tame affairs where the players are simply working on fitness and avoiding injuries. Crystal Palace and Sevilla set an early tone of physical play with a crunching challenge by Sevilla's veteran defender Nemanja Gudelj on Palace's budding star Eberechi Eze. The Palace number 10 looked like the best player on the pitch and received a number of hard tackles throughout the game. Gudelj was eventually sent off for a second bookable offense against the same player ten minutes from the end.

At the times the action threatened to escalate to more serious confrontations. Sevilla manager Jose Luis Mendilibar liked the intensity, "We are a couple of weeks from starting, so at this point we should be playing at the level of intensity required to start the season", he told the press after the game. His team started well and were rewarded with an excellent goal before halftime.

Palace failed to clear a corner and the ball bounced to Croatian international Ivan Rakitic. The midfield leader struck a thunderous volley from a narrow angle that smacked the inside of the far post on the way into the net. Palace goalkeeper Sam Johnstone barely flinched before the ball whistled by him. Replays on the big scoreboard brought more "Oohs" and "Aahs" from the crowd. Sevilla went in at the break worthy of their 1-0 lead.

During the second half Mendilibar made use of his bench, bringing on a few substitutions during the course of the second 45, but Crystal Palace boss Roy Hodgson elected to play his starters the entire 90 minutes. When asked after the game, he replied simply, "They need the work." Given that Palace had much the better of the second half, the team justified his decision. Hodgson said there was "Nobody on the bench we needed to see. This is the first time that we have put out a team that might resemble the team to start the season."

Eberechi Eze, an England international, continued to attack from his position behind center forward Odsonne Edouard and lit up Comerica Park with a number of clever flicks and tricks on the ball. You could feel the crowd sit or stand a little more at attention when he was on the ball. He also gave Sevilla taste of his full potential to score the equalizer. After cleverly dribbling through three lunging defenders, he coolly slid the ball between the legs of goalkeeper Mark Dimitrovic to make the score 1-1. A quick sudden death penalty kick tie breaker at the end of the game was resolved when Rakitic scored and defender Joachim Anderson hit the crossbar, giving Sevilla the Motor City Cup trophy on the night.

The Sevilla manager appreciated the opportunity to win a trophy, saying that getting results instills confidence in the players. Hodgson said, "I'm optimistic that if we play as we did tonight, against such a quality opponent, that we can have a good start to the season." He went on to point out that he has lost five first team players during the summer and only brought in one, so he has concerns about the depth of his team; that included a pointed comment that the chairman and the board haven't given him enough resources yet.

Both managers expressed their appreciation for the crowd and the setting in Detroit. Mendilibar said, "We were impressed and surprised by the atmosphere. We don't usually experience that in preseason games in Europe. The players really enjoyed the game." Hodgson, who took a couple minutes to reminisce about leading Switzerland at the Silverdome during the 1994 World Cup said he "would have no hesitation to come back if invited." He went on the praise the welcome he and his team received at Comerica Park and during training at Oakland University. He also had a great compliment for the Comerica Park grounds crew saying, "We weren't sure what to expect coming into the game. The pitch played better than we thought it would given the difficulties of converting from baseball to soccer."

Given the praise heaped upon Detroit and the stadium by both Sevilla and Crystal Palace and the unexpectedly large crowd for two teams that don't typically move the needle, perhaps there will be more opportunities to bring in preseason games in future years. Let's hope that with the Copa America, World Club Cup and FIFA World Cup coming to the US during the next three summers that Detroit isn't left out of the action.

Normalmente, estos amistosos de pretemporada son partidos relajados en los que los jugadores simplemente trabajan la condición física, evitando lesiones; pero el Crystal Palace y el Sevilla establecieron un tono de juego físico con un desafío contundente del veterano defensor del Sevilla, Nemanja Gudelj, contra la estrella del Palace, Eberechi Eze. El número 10 del Palace se posicionó como el mejor jugador de la cancha y recibió una serie de duras entradas a lo largo del partido. Gudelj finalmente fue expulsado por una segunda amonestación contra el mismo jugador, a diez minutos del final.

En ese momento, la acción amenazó con escalar a confrontaciones más serias. El técnico del Sevilla, José Luis Mendilibar, valoró la intensidad: "Estamos a un par de semanas de empezar, así que a estas alturas deberíamos estar jugando al nivel de intensidad necesario para empezar la temporada", dijo a la prensa tras el partido. Su equipo empezó bien y fue recompensado con un excelente gol antes del medio tiempo.

El Palace falló el lanzamiento y la pelota rebotó en el croata Ivan Rakitic. El líder del medio campo hizo el disparó desde un ángulo estrecho que golpeó el interior del segundo poste en el camino hacia la red. El portero del Palace, Sam Johnstone, apenas se inmutó antes de que le pitaran. Las repeticiones en el gran marcador trajeron más "Oohs" y "Aahs" de la multitud. El Sevilla entró al descanso digno de su 1-0 de ventaja.

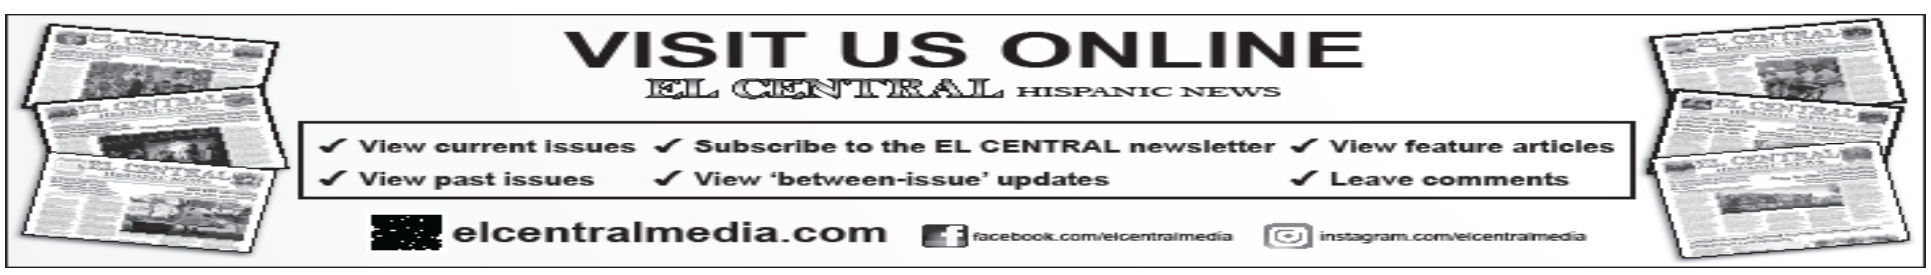
Durante la segunda mitad, Mendilibar hizo uso de la banca, con algunas sustituciones durante el transcurso del segundo tiempo, pero el técnico del Crystal Palace, Roy Hodgson, eligió jugar con sus titulares los 90 minutos completos. Cuando se le preguntó sobre el juego, simplemente respondió: "Necesitan el trabajo". Dado que Palace estuvo mucho mejor en la segunda mitad, el equipo justificó su decisión. Hodgson mencionó "no había nadie en el banco al que necesitáramos ver. Esta es la primera vez que presentamos a un equipo que podría parecerse al equipo real al comienzo de la temporada".

El inglés Eberechi Eze, continuó atacando desde su posición detrás del delantero Odsonne Edouard e iluminó al Comerica Park con una serie de inteligentes movimientos y trucos con el balón. Podías sentir que la multitud prestaba un poco más en atención cuando él tenía la pelota. También le dio a probar al Sevilla todo su potencial para marcar el gol del empate. Después de pasar hábilmente a través de tres defensores que se abalanzaban, deslizó con frialdad el balón entre las piernas del portero Mark Dimitrovic para lograr el 1-1. Un rápido desempate de penalti de muerte súbita al final del juego se resolvió cuando Rakitic anotó y el defensor Joachim Anderson golpeó la portería, dando al Sevilla el trofeo de la Copa Motor City de la noche.

El entrenador del Sevilla agradeció la oportunidad de ganar un trofeo y dijo que obtener resultados infunde confianza en los jugadores. Hodgson dijo: "Soy optimista de que si jugamos como lo hicimos esta noche, contra un oponente de renombre, podemos tener un buen comienzo de temporada". Continuó señalando que ha perdido a cinco jugadores del primer equipo durante el verano y solo trajo uno, por lo que le preocupa la profundidad de su equipo; eso incluyó un comentario mordaz de que el presidente y la junta aún no le han dado suficientes recursos.

Ambos entrenadores expresaron su aprecio a los aficionados y el escenario en Detroit. Mendilibar dijo: "Quedamos impresionados y sorprendidos por el ambiente. No solemos experimentar eso en los juegos de pretemporada en Europa. Los jugadores realmente disfrutaron el juego". Hodgson, quien se tomó un par de minutos para recordar cómo lideró a Suiza en el Silverdome durante la Copa del Mundo de 1994, dijo que "no dudaría en volver si lo invitan". Continuó elogiando la bienvenida que él y su equipo recibieron en Comerica Park y durante el entrenamiento en la Universidad de Oakland. También tuvo un gran elogio para el equipo de mantenimiento de Comerica Park, diciendo: "No estábamos seguros de qué esperar al comenzar el juego. La cancha estuvo mejor de lo que pensábamos, dadas las dificultades de convertir el béisbol en fútbol".

Dados los elogios sobre Detroit y el estadio tanto por parte del Sevilla como del Crystal Palace y la multitud inesperadamente grande para dos equipos que normalmente no mueven la aguja, tal vez haya más oportunidades para traer juegos de pretemporada en años futuros. Esperemos que, con la Copa América, la Copa Mundial de Clubes y la Copa Mundial de la FIFA en los Estados Unidos durante los próximos tres veranos, Detroit no se quede fuera de la acción.



EDITORIAL OPINION

"California's Milk and Honey"

By Raoul Lowery Contreras

I watched the 1940 award winning movie "Grapes of Wrath" recently. John Steinbeck wrote the book, John Ford turned it into a movie.

Most of us have no idea what it was like for the "Joads" (the family portrayed in the movie) to be displaced from sharecropping in Oklahoma or for small town Arkansans to lose their rented bits of land, communities or cotton to pick. Most of us don't know what 25 or more percent unemployment is like or what life after 65 is like without Social Security or Medicare. Most of us don't know what it was like to only have ten cents budgeted for a loaf of bread when it cost 15 cents.

There are some people who are experiencing relatively hard times today that come close to the 1930s. Many lost their homes in the crash of 2008, or lost jobs, or dropped out of college because tuition is rising as a result of shrinking state budgets and growing state budget deficits. Professor pay is shrinking and some are being laid off. At my alma mater, San Diego State, professors aren't being hired, part time instructors are.

The pandemic-caused history-making job losses were huge forcing many to receive free food because "food insecurity" followed jobs losses in the millions. but the economy is surging and unlike 1939 we don't have Hitler and Tojo to thank for bailing us out.

The American consumer and our international customers are bailing us out and pandemic job losses are just bad memories.

Here in California, even in my own San Diego County (9th nationally ranked agricultural producing county) – the "Land of Milk and Honey" that the displaced Oklahomans in the "Grapes of Wrath" fled to – crops need to be picked, streets need to be swept and children cared for.

Reportedly, there are more than a million farm and dairy workers, dishwashers, nannies (criadas), canners and construction workers in California illegally. Farm workers are used to sporadic work and traveling from county to county. Little has changed for these workers since the 1930s. Unlike the 30s, however, these aren't Oklahomans or Arkansans, this time and since World War Two, most of these people are Mexican and/or Central and South Americans.

Most of these men know what it is like to be displaced from their land. Most know when ten cents won't buy 15 cents worth of tortillas. Most know when their children go to bed hungry, really hungry. Most know poverty, real poverty, the kind faced by so many Americans in the 1930s.

Like the Joads they come to California to work. They can make more than what the Joads made (5 cents a box of picked peaches) in the 30s. Like the Joads they take what work they can get; like them they must look over their shoulders constantly because law enforcement stands by in some places to harass and arrest anyone looking Mexican.

Presidential - 2024 - candidate Asa Hutchinson, former governor of Arkansas, for example, endeared himself to all intelligent Americans when as a ranking appointee of President George W. Bush, he stopped random street arrests of Mexican-looking people at bus stops in Escondido without specific information that they were in the country illegally.

"Minutemen" AKA "vigilanties" patrolled the border and places where casual labor job seeker Mexicans gathered. The San Diego Sheriff Department announced a "middle road" practice of holding suspected illegals for an hour for Border Patrol officers to collect them.

Conversely, the San Diego Police didn't hold suspected illegals unless they had committed a California Penal Code violation, a real crime.

300 miles east, Arizona's former Sheriff Joe Arpaio – "America's toughest sheriff" – ordered his men to illegally sweep streets in Maricopa County to look for Mexicans who have committed no crime in Arizona but who may be here illegally by expiration of visa or lack of papers attesting to their legal presence in the country.

His sweeps were illegal, unconstitutional and eventually led to conflict with the federal government. Arpaio was convicted of federal crimes. Even a pardon from President Trump didn't erase the felony conviction. Federal judges, not local yokels, made that determination.

Meanwhile, men and women suffering the "1930s," in 2023 Mexico and Guatemala and political refugees from Haiti, Cuba, Nicaragua and Venezuela continue coming to California to pick our crops, sweep our streets and to care for our children. People always have and they always will. Why?

5 Key Things to Do After Having a Baby

(StatePoint) Becoming a new parent is a joyous occasion, but no matter how many parenting books you've read, nothing can completely prepare you for your baby's arrival. With every pregnancy comes a long to-do list, but here are five tips to review after having a baby.

1. Start building an emergency fund.

Being financially prepared for anything can help protect your growing family. Managing your cash flow and setting aside a specified amount each month for an emergency fund will have your future self thanking you. Whether it ends up being an unplanned doctor's bill or emergency car repairs, you'll be prepared to meet the cost. Use a free online emergency fund calculator to determine what's a good amount of cushion for your situation.

2. Review your life insurance plan.

Although this big, exciting event just happened and the last thing you want to think about is something bad happening, it's always better to be prepared. A set amount of money each month towards a life insurance plan can help your family in a worst-case scenario, providing financial security and the ability for your family to maintain their current lifestyle. Life insurance could pay for daycare to allow the surviving spouse to work, fund your child's education and provide income replacement to help pay off a mortgage. Erie Insurance offers affordable and flexible life insurance plans to make certain you get what you want for your family. Take the time to find out how much insurance you need by visiting ErieInsurance.com/life-insurance/calculator.

Hint: Ask your insurance agent about bundling your home, auto and life insurance – it may be able to save you money.

3. Apply for your baby's Social Security number and birth certificate.

Social Security numbers (SSN) and birth certificates are not automatically generated upon birth. Nurses or the hospital will more than likely offer you the steps to apply for your baby's SSN and to fill out the birth certificate. However, it is important to complete these items promptly to avoid a delay or issues in adding your baby as a dependent on tax forms, health plans and more.

4. Add your baby to your health plan and benefits.

Most insurance plans allow 30 to 60 days to add your new baby to a health plan so that the birth and continued care are covered. Be sure to add your new dependent or the hospital might bill the full amount for your stay. Contacting your health insurance provider is the easiest way to ensure your new dependent is added.

Hint: Before your baby is born, compare health plans to see which insurance plan will cover more birth and postnatal costs.

5. Start saving for college.

It's no secret that student loan debt is out of control. Putting away a set amount of money each month into a secure account can set up your child with a healthy debt-free financial future. If your child chooses to take an alternative path, they can use that money for a down payment on their first home. Be sure to discuss with an accountant the different long-term savings options available.

As new parents, you can provide all the TLC required for your new bundle of joy, but following these five steps will help set up you and your baby for success, no matter what life throws at you.

5 cosas clave que hacer después de tener un bebé

(StatePoint) Convertirse en padre primerizo es una ocasión feliz, pero no importa cuántos libros sobre crianza haya leído, nada puede prepararlo por completo para la llegada de su bebé. Con cada embarazo viene una larga lista de cosas por hacer, pero aquí hay cinco consejos para revisar después de tener un bebé.

1. Comience a crear un fondo de emergencia.

Estar preparado financieramente para cualquier cosa puede ayudar a proteger a su familia en crecimiento. Administrar su flujo de efectivo y reservar una cantidad específica cada mes para un fondo de emergencia hará que su futuro yo se lo agradezca. Ya sea que termine siendo una factura médica no planificada o reparaciones de emergencia del automóvil, estará preparado para cubrir el costo. Use una calculadora de fondos de emergencia en línea gratuita para determinar cuál es una buena cantidad de protección para su situación.

2. Revise su plan de seguro de vida.

Aunque este gran y emocionante evento acaba de ocurrir y lo último en lo que quiere pensar es en que algo malo está sucediendo, siempre es mejor estar preparado. Una cantidad fija de dinero cada mes para un plan de seguro de vida puede ayudar a su familia en el peor de los casos, brindando seguridad financiera y la capacidad para que su familia mantenga su estilo de vida actual. El seguro de vida podría pagar la guardería para permitir que el cónyuge sobreviviente trabaje, financiar la educación de su hijo y proporcionar un reemplazo de ingresos para ayudar a pagar una hipoteca. Erie Insurance ofrece planes de seguro de vida asequibles y flexibles para asegurarse de que obtenga lo que desea para su familia. Tómese el tiempo para averiguar cuánto seguro necesita visitando ErieInsurance.com/life-insurance/calculator.

3. Solicite el número de Seguro Social y el certificado de nacimiento de su bebé.

Los números de Seguro Social (SSN) y los certificados de nacimiento no se generan automáticamente al momento del nacimiento. Es muy probable que las enfermeras o el hospital le ofrezcan los pasos para solicitar el SSN de su bebé y completar el certificado de nacimiento. Sin embargo, es importante completar estos elementos de inmediato para evitar demoras o problemas al agregar a su bebé como dependiente en los formularios de impuestos, planes de salud y más.

4. Agregue a su bebé a su plan de salud y beneficios.

La mayoría de los planes de seguro permiten de 30 a 60 días para agregar a su nuevo bebé a un plan de salud para que el nacimiento y la atención continua estén cubiertos. Asegúrese de agregar a su nuevo dependiente o el hospital podría facturar el monto total de su estadía. Ponerse en contacto con su proveedor de seguro de salud es la forma más fácil de asegurarse de que se agregue a su nuevo dependiente.

5. Comience a ahorrar para la universidad.

No es ningún secreto que la deuda de préstamos estudiantiles está fuera de control. Guardar una cantidad fija de dinero cada mes en una cuenta segura puede preparar a su hijo con un futuro financiero saludable y libre de deudas. Si su hijo elige tomar un camino alternativo, puede usar ese dinero para el pago inicial de su primera casa. Asegúrese de discutir con un contador las diferentes opciones de ahorro a largo plazo disponibles.

Como nuevos padres, pueden brindar todo el cariño necesario para su nuevo paquete de alegría, pero seguir estos cinco pasos los ayudará a usted y a su bebé a tener éxito, sin importar lo que la vida les depare.

Online media registration will open on Monday, July 24. Announcement of Charity Preview entertainment is coming soon.

"With a new indoor EV track and more street course ride-and-drives, show visitors will have an opportunity to experience and learn about the EV movement firsthand, both behind the wheel and as passengers," said Detroit Auto Show Chairman Thad Szott. "And for media and industry gathered, the show's first-ever Mobility Global Forum will be a compelling focal point for new mobility discussion."

He added, "And, what can you say about Charity Preview? It's a highlight of the auto show season; a time when Detroit's giving spirit shines through for local children."
